AFTER NINE YEARS.

Peter Larkins, Wanted for Highway Robbery, Caught at Last.

A large crowd of tramps was sent to the Ward and Crabtree. Among them was a man who gave the name of Palmer, but man whom they lured from a dance in Washington Hall, and, taking him down on Kentucky avenue, held him up and robbed him. Both Ryan and Larkins were arrested, and Ryan served a two years' sentence in the State prison, but Larking and STILL EXECUTION TO DELICATION TO D tence in the State prison, but Larkins was released upon bond furnished by his father and left the city. Until yesterday he has not been seen here. His father paid the $200 bond and the case was forgotten until Larkins was brought to the station house Tuesday night. The old charge held good and the charge of vagrancy was changed to highway robbery.

The Board of Safety held its regular monthly meeting yesterday afternoon and passed upon the charges which had been preferred against several patrolmen. In the charges preferred against Officer A. C. Schafer by Frank Baker, a trial was had, Baker acting as attorney for the board and ones 25c Merl Walker for Schafer. Baker testified he and Harry Hart were Odd lots of Ladles' Hoslery, 15c, 19c, 25c | going home from a band concert on the and 35c, and that's just about one-third night of July 18, when they met Jacob

Baker then told how Patrol- | priation. men Schafer and Foltzenlogel had come up and demanded of the three young men that they go home, and that Baker had told the officers that they would go when they got ready. Baker said Schafer pushed his brother and Hart away and dragged him into the hallway of the building where he slapped him. He finally broke away and ran down the street with the officers after that Frank Baker had acted the "smart Aleck" and insisted upon provoking him, by calling him names and abusing him. The board dismissed the case before the evidence was all taken.

Patrolman Sheridan was fined three days' pay for using disrespectful language to Superintendent Colbert. There had been several complaints made to the superintendent that Sheridan was drunk. The superintendent investigated them and found they were made out of spite by some of his neighbors. He advised Sheridan to move away from his present residence place. Last Saturday a man called at the police station and told the superintendent that Sheridan was drunk and when Sheridan came in, Mr. Colbert told him of the charge, but seeing that it could not have been true, again spoke of his moving away from the people who seemed determined to get his buttons. Superintendent Colbert learned, however, that Sheridan had taken a drink or two and he told him to consider himself suspended untold him to consider himself suspended until the next night. Sheridan made the re-mark that he would not come back the next night and did not come until Monday. He was then suspended pending the action of the board. The board at first wanted to dismiss him from the force, but the superintendent said he had apologized for his action and he was left off with a SEE IT! DELAWARE-STREET TRACKS.

Wants the Entire Street. Members of the Council committee

the Board of Works and the Mayor last evening to consider the proposition to grant the Pennsylvania Company permission to lay three tracks across Delaware street, near Georgia. The ordinance granting the permission has not yet been introduced in the Council and if it is introduced it will probably be upon the recommendation of the Board of Public Works. The Pennsylvania Company intends to erect a large new freight house on the site of the Sinker-Davis plant and it is of the opinion that it will be necessary that three tracks be laid connecting the freight house with the Union tracks.

The discussion last night was informal and members of the conference were loath to express themselves on the matter after the meeting, which was behind closed doors, had adjourned. Chairman Colter said that it would be of great value to the city to have the new freight house erected, but it was a question whether the City Council could afford to allow the railroad company to monopolize a street in order to secure the improvement. He said it had been suggested to the representatives of the company that permission be granted them to lay three tracks close to the Union tracks, but the company insisted that they should be near to Georgia street. He said the members of last night's conference had agreed to look over the ground in the course of the next few days. The proposed right of way for the In-dianapolis, Logansport & Chicago railroad was also discussed and it was agreed that a trip should be made over the route asked for and also over the routes suggested by citizens who oppose the route asked for by the railroad people. The conference did not consider the tele-

Paving Time Extended. The Board of Works yesterday granted to the Capital Paving and Construction Company an extension of time until Aug. 15, in which to complete the improvement Columbia alley, and until Sept. 1 in which to improve Court street. F. E. Helwig, of the Central Chair Company, made a vigorous protest against an extension of time on the Columbia-avenue improvement. He informed the board that property owners would expect the board to hold the paving company to its contract, collecting the fifty dollars a day forfeit and applying the same to the property owners' cost of the improvement. The streets should have been

AWOKE IN HIS GRAVE.

But the "Professor" Put Wyatt to Sleep Again.

Contrary to the programme prepared by 'Professor' Edwin Boone, when he buried J. J. Wyatt Tuesday night, that individual returned to consciousness and was taken from his grave yesterday morning. Boone, who had stayed with his subject all night, had gone to town to attend to some business and while he was absent the intense heat and foul air of the grave got the better of the hypnotic influence of the "Professor" and Wyatt came to consciousness with a groan that frightened the man watching the grave. The watcher soon brought men to work with shovels. When taken from his coffin, Wyatt seemed dazed and for a few moments wandered aimlessly about. The news of the accident was telephoned to the "Professor," who hurried to the park, and relieved his victim by again putting him under his influence. The grave was again prepared, this time with two ventilating pipes instead of one, and the "corpse" reinterred. In explaining the break in his programme, Boone said that "the corpse" had regained consciousness because of a lack of pure air. Much earlier than usual this morning a large crowd was at the park, all anxious to get a view of the hypnotized man. People were constantly gazing down the air chute. This shut off pure air, it is claimed. Boone did not wair for the grave to be again prepared before putting Wyatt in the hypnotic state, but as soon as he arrived, he took him to the band stand and laid him out, and when ready replaced him under the ground without awakening him. Wyatt was given nothing to eat nor drink, during his short stay above ground, and with the better provision for fresh air, it is not expected that his sleep will again be interrupted. one person is allowed to look at a time. The board appointed Jeremiah A. Holla- At present there is a good circulation of air through the grave, and by placing the hand over the pipe at the foot of the grave, quite a draft can be felt.

At 11 o'clock last night a reporter visited Fairview Park for the purpose of getting another peep at the "corpse." He found 'Professor' Boone and two assistants standing guard. Boone explained that no visitors had been allowed to look down the chute last night, for fear the trouble of the morning might be duplicated, but there is no doubt that Wyatt was still in the grave, as it is under the glare of an elec-tric light and the grounds were crowded all night by hundreds of people anxious to see the living dead man. If any deception is intended, however, it will prove an easy matter for "Prof." Boone and his "horse," as subjects of hypnotic influence are known in the vernacular of the stage, to practice upon the public, as from midnight until after 6 o'clock this morning the grounds were practically deserted. It would be an easy matter for Boone and his assistants to resurrect Wyatt, give him five or six hours' rest from the confinement of his grave and rebury him, either with or without the connivance of any chance em ployes at the park who might stumble upon them at their ghoulish work, and the public be none the wiser. When the reporter left the park at 11:15 no one was in sight with the exception of two or three colored waiters at the park pavilion. No policemen were to be seen. "Prof." Boone remarked that he and his assistants, with the aid of the mosquitoes, ought to be able to take care of the "corpse." If he grows hungry or thirsty, it will be an easy mat-ter to pass food and water down the chute.

SMALL SOLDIER BOYS.

The Boys' Brigade in Camp at Fairview Park.

The picnic held yesterday at Fairview Park by the First and Fifth Regiments of the United Boys' Brigade of America was a success. The different companies arrived at the "camp" from 8 o'clock until 11, when all had been accounted for. Brigadier General A. B. Richardson had his headquarters Pennsylvania Company Practically and around that the camp was established Picket lines were laid off and sentinels set to see that no one left or entered the camp who had no business there, but the boys paid little attention to those who were on and franchises met with the members of duty and "ran the guard" with great regularity. After reporting at headquarters each company field their drill, and at 11 o'clock battalion drill was the order received from headquarters. At 4 o'clock in the afternoon regimental inspection and a competitive drill was held, for two small cash prizes. The judges were Captain C. S.
Tarleton and Lieutenant W. T. Irvin, of Companies H and A. Indiana National
